

KINGFISHER HEALING

INTRODUCTION TO THE SHAMANIC JOURNEY

(Based on original cross-cultural practices)

Dr. Leta Kingfisher, PhD

August 28, 2022. 10:00 am – 5:00 pm

Aurora Chiropractic, Massage Therapy and Health Centre

Long before human civilization emerged, our tribal ancestors mastered abilities to probe beyond ordinary consciousness and discovered methods to bridge the gap between the human mind and spirit. There is a resurgence of interest today in the ancient ways of the shamans who explore mystical states of consciousness to find solutions to daily life difficulties. An increasing number of westerners are learning to use the methods tested over many thousand years to access alternate dimensions of reality in order to make contact with sources of wisdom and power.

Founded on cross-cultural shamanic traditions, in this one-day intensive workshop participants will be introduced to the classic shamanic journey to other worlds to contact their own spirit helpers. Upon completion, participants will be able to engage spirit power for personal guidance, for healing, and advice (divination) for others.

This workshop introduces participants to the absolute basics and qualifies for more advanced shamanic trainings offered by Dr. Kingfisher.

Dr. Leta Kingfisher, a member of the Sturgeon Lake First Nation has more than thirty years of traditional Indigenous spiritual practice. Dr. Kingfisher is a traditional spiritual healer, trauma therapist, consultant and Assistant Professor of Indigenous Studies at the First Nations University of Canada.
